Shots of Amina, mother of seven, in her shelter with three of her children.

Amina and her children have been displaced for 4 years due to the fighting.

The first time she fled, she was waiting to receive food when fighters entered into her village. She was forced to flee without any money finding transport in exchange for her belongings.

WFP Yemen

"Many people in Abs have been displaced not for the first time, but for two, three, four times... each time they get displaced they have to find the transport; hence their coping mechanisms, to actually find the transport, to make a living, gets reduced and thus makes WFP even more crucial to respond quickly, urgently, with an immediate response ration for five days and then to keep the people alive basically."

WFP's Yemen emergency response is our largest anywhere in the world.

WFP has in recent months been providing food assistance to more than 10 million people. Our goal is to feed 12 million of the most vulnerable and food-insecure people a month – double 2018 targets.

On 20 June, WFP began a partial suspension of food assistance operations in areas of Yemen under the control of the Sana'a-based authorities. The decision was taken after negotiations stalled on an agreement to introduce controls to prevent the diversion of food away from some of the most vulnerable people in Yemen.

The first stage of the suspension – effective in Sana'a city only – affects some 850,000 people.

Elsewhere in Yemen, WFP's food assistance programmes are continuing as normal.

WFP will maintain nutrition programmes for malnourished children, pregnant and nursing mothers throughout the period of suspension.

In 2019, WFP plans to assist up to 3 million women and children with nutrition support with a strong focus on prevention. WFP is running a supplementary feeding programme for all children and pregnant or nursing women in 165 priority districts identified as being at risk of malnutrition.

YEMEN IN NUMBERS (IPC DECEMBER 2018 AND WFP DATA)

Population:	nearly 30 million people
Food insecure people:	20.1 million
Displaced	3.6 million
People facing acute need:	9.8 million
WFP's monthly target for emergency food assistance:	12 million

WFP nutrition support to women & children

2.6 million
